Introduction

This reference guide is for Massachusetts' residents seeking information on housing for low-and moderate-income families and individuals. Most housing in Massachusetts is rented or sold through the private real estate market. However, there are numerous agencies and organizations that provide lower-cost, subsidized housing for those who cannot afford market-rate rents or home prices.

There are different types of low-cost housing such as subsidized rental housing, public housing and homeownership opportunities for low-income, first-time homebuyers. Many of these housing units are subsidized by the federal government, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, or non-profit or community organizations.

Public Housing

There are approximately 90,000 units of state and federally assisted public housing in Massachusetts. Public housing developments are apartments that are built and subsidized by either the state or federal government. There are different types of public housing: public housing is available to families, to elderly persons, and to certain persons with disabilities. There is a very small amount of public housing available to single persons.

Public housing developments are managed by local housing authorities. There are 237 local housing authorities in Massachusetts (see pages 10 thru 24 for a full listing).

Eligibility: To be eligible to live in public housing a household must typically earn no more than 80 percent of the area median income ($50,200 for a family of four in the greater Boston area as of March 2000). Income guidelines vary from year to year and region to region. Ask the housing authority you are applying to what the income guidelines are in its region. To live in state-assisted elderly state public housing, you must be at least 60 years old. If you are a person with a disability, you must meet certain criteria to be eligible for state or federal housing for disabled persons.

Rent: The rent a public housing tenant pays is based on household income and whether the costs of any utilities (electricity, heat, cooking fuel) are included. Public housing tenants pay:

- 30 percent of net income for rent if the rent includes any basic utilities
- 25 percent of net income if no utilities are provided

How to apply for public housing: You must put your name on a waiting list that is kept by the local housing authority. Applicants may put their name on more than one waiting list if they qualify for more than one program. Waiting lists for public housing tend to be long. When your name comes to the top of the list, the housing authority will contact you. Be sure to notify a housing authority if you change your address while you are waiting for a public housing unit. See pages 10 thru 24 for a list of housing authorities and their telephone numbers.

Public Housing Preferences: The following are among the persons given preference for public housing units over other applicants:

- Persons who are homeless due to natural disasters
- Persons who are homeless due to public action
- Persons with emergency needs (such as domestic violence victims, persons with medical emergencies, or homeless persons facing an immediate threat to their health and safety)

There are also preferences for veterans and local residents. For more details, consult a local housing authority.

Rental Assistance

Rental assistance programs provide financial aid to help low-income persons rent apartments other than apartments in public housing developments. There are several types of rental assistance in Massachusetts: The three largest programs are: The Section 8 Housing Choice Voucher Program (HCVP), the Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program (MRVP), and the Alternative Housing Voucher Program (AHVP). The federal government funds the Section 8 assistance through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Commonwealth funds the MRVP and AHVP programs.

Section 8

The federal government provides the funds for Section 8. Recipients receive their benefits through local housing authorities (LHAs) or regional housing agencies. There are approximately 65,000 people receiving Section 8 rental assistance in Massachusetts. The United States Congress periodically makes more money available to HUD to fund additional vouchers.

Eligibility: Eligibility is based on gross income. 75 percent of all households selected to receive Section 8 must have incomes within 30 percent of the area median income ($21,000 for a family of four in Boston). 25 percent of Section 8 households can have incomes up to 50 percent of the median ($35,000 for a family of four). In some instances these limits can go as high as 80 percent of median ($52,500 for a family of four in Boston) although very few housing agencies serve households with this income at this limit. Income limits vary depending on the number of persons in the household and the region in which they live at the time they are selected for assistance.

Rents: Section 8 recipients generally pay between 30 percent and 40 percent of their income for rent. The Section 8 voucher pays the difference between the rent charged by the landlord and the tenants contribution to the rent.

How to apply for Section 8: You should call any of the local housing authorities listed on pages 10 thru 24 to find out how to submit an application. Please note that some local housing authorities either do not have a Section 8 program or their waiting lists may be closed. You may apply to as many of the housing agencies as you wish. If you apply to one of the regional housing agencies your name will be placed on a statewide Section 8 waiting list maintained by the Department of Housing and Community Development. These waiting lists are quite long. The regional housing agency lists are always open.

Preferences: Each housing agency establishes their own Section 8 preferences. They are documented in the agency's Annual Public Housing Plan and the agency's Section 8 Administration Plan. Both documents can be obtained by calling the housing agency or HUD at 617-994-8200.

Examples of preferences include:

- Involuntarily displaced due to fire, natural disaster, government action, domestic violence, landlord action, having a disability or threats as a result of witnessing a crime.
- Living in substandard housing or being homeless (such as living in a shelter or an apartment with serious code violations);
- Paying more than 50 percent of your income for rent for more than 90 days.

Section 8 programs administered by local housing authorities often have a preference for local residents. Section 8 programs administered by regional housing agencies have a regional residency preference.

The Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts provides rental assistance through the Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program (MRVP). The program is funded annually by the state legislature. State-funded "mobile" vouchers can be used anywhere in Massachusetts, but "project-based" vouchers are only available in specific apartments. The vouchers are administered by local housing authorities (see pages 10 thru 24) and regional nonprofit agencies (see page 25).

Eligibility: Persons seeking state rental vouchers can earn no more than 200 percent of the federal poverty level ($35,300 for a household of 4 persons as of April 2001). Income limits are higher or lower, depending on the size of the household.

Rents: MRVP "mobile" voucher holders receive varying amounts of subsidy depending on income. Project-based voucher holders pay 30 percent of their income for rent or 35 percent if heat is included in the rent. The voucher amount makes up the difference between what the landlord charges and what the tenant can pay. There are limits on the total rental amount.

How to apply for MRVP assistance: Most local housing authorities and all of the regional non-profit housing agencies administer the MRVP program. For a list of local housing authorities see pages 10 thru 24. For a list of regional non-profit agencies see page 25.

Massachusetts Alternative Housing Voucher Program

The Alternative Housing Voucher Program (AHVP) was created by the state legislature in 1995. It provides rental assistance to people with disabilities under age 60 who either live in, or are eligible to live in elderly/disabled state-assisted public housing. There were 800 AHVP vouchers in use, as of April 2001.

Eligibility: The income guidelines are the same as State Public Housing (see previous section). Applicants must be under age 60 and eligible to live in elderly/disabled state-funded public housing.

Rents: AHVP recipients pay 30 percent of their income for rent if the rent includes heat and utilities, or 25 percent if some or no utilities are included in the rent. There are limits on the total rental amount.

How to apply for Alternative Housing Vouchers: Contact a participating local housing authority, or the Massachusetts Department of Housing and Community Development at (617) 727-7130, ext. 655.

Individual Self-Sufficiency Program (ISSI)

The ISSI is administered throughout the Commonwealth by nine (9) Regional Non-Profit Housing Agencies. This housing program assists homeless individuals transition to permanent housing and is comprised of two components: Resource Model and Development Model.

The Resource Model provides a homeless individual who has located a housing unit with financial assistance for such payments as a security deposit, first month's rent, payment for a utility arrearage, moving costs and a small monthly stipend for the payment of rent. To be eligible for the ISSI an individual must be residing in a shelter at the time of application, and be employed or participating in a vocational or employment training program. The maximum eligibility income is 80 percent of the area median and the maximum length of participation is twelve (12) months.

The Development Model provides non-profit and private property owners with financial assistance for the development of housing units that will be occupied by ISSI eligible individuals. For further information on the ISSI please contact the Department of Housing and Community Development at 617-727-7130 ext. 655.

Other Rental Assistance Resources

For individuals and families:

The Department of Housing and Community Development manages a number of rental housing programs, information about which can be obtained by calling (617) 727-7130. The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) also maintains a list of rental housing developments that it has financed. Many units within MHFA-financed developments are reserved for low- or moderate-income persons. A list of MHFA rental properties can be obtained by calling (617) 854-1185 and requesting the rental housing list. The City of Boston operates a Metrolist, a centralized listing service of both rental and ownership housing opportunities. Contact the Metrolist at (617) 635-3321.

For the elderly:

Statewide Elder Hotline 1-800-882-2003

Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs (617) 727-7750

For the disabled:

See the list of Independent Living Centers on page 40

Independent Living Information Center: 1-800-462-5015

For special needs housing:

Massachusetts Department of Mental Health (617) 626-8000

Massachusetts Department of Mental Retardation (617) 727-5608

Homeownership Opportunities

There are a variety of programs available to help low- or moderate - income people purchase a home. Most programs are limited to firsttime homebuyers.

The state Soft-Second Mortgage Program

The Soft Second Mortgage Program is a state-funded program that -helps households earning approximately $48,000 or less purchase their first homes. The program requires a minimum 5 percent down payment. The state will subsidize a second mortgage on behalf of the homeowner who will also have a conventional mortgage.

For further information: Contact the Massachusetts Housing Partnership at (617) 338-7868 or the Department of Housing and Community Development at (617) 727-7824.

Local homebuyer programs

The state annually awards funds to certain communities and nonprofit agencies that operate local first-time homebuyer programs. Funds are used to make loans to first-time homebuyers with incomes at or below 80 percent of the area median income ($50,200 for a family of four in the greater Boston area).

For further information: Contact the Department of Housing and Community Development at (617) 727-7824. Information is also available at DHCD's website at www.state.ma.us/dhcd.

The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA)

The MHFA is a quasi-public state agency that provides below-market-rate mortgage financing for first-time homebuyers, and other products (such as lead paint abatement and home improvement loans) for homeowners with moderate incomes.

For further information: Contact MHFA at (617) 854-1020 or on the web at www.mhfa.com.

Homebuyer Counseling

Some state and local agencies as well as non-profits and banks offer courses on how to purchase your first home:

The Massachusetts Homeownership Collaborative has information on homebuyer counseling agencies across the state. Contact: 1-800-HOME-111 or on the web at www.baystatehomebuyer.com.

The Federal National Mortgage Association ("Fannie Mae"): 1-800-732-6643

The City of Boston operates the Boston Home Center: 617-635-4663

The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency has a list of homebuyer counseling agencies. Contact them at (617) 854-1000 or www.mhfa.com.

Home rehabilitation loans

Loans are available for low and moderate income homeowners who would otherwise have limited access to traditional lending sources. DHCD's five affiliates that implement the Neighborhood Housing Service Program (NHSP) can be found on page 31.

Homelessness

If you are already homeless:

Contact the nearest Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA) office (see page 29). DTA will determine if you are eligible for the Housing Assistance Program (HAP) services.

Other Housing and Social Services Resources

For families who are not income-eligible for Housing Assistance Program (HAP) services or for single individuals without dependent children in their custody, there is another program that is involved in providing affordable housing and social services for low-income persons.

The Department of Housing and Community Development funds the Housing Consumer Education Centers Initiative at its Regional NonProfit Housing Agencies. The Housing Consumer Education Centers educate housing consumers on how to acquire the necessary tools to access appropriate services to meet specific housing needs and encourage people to become or remain self-sufficient.

Each HCEC provider makes the following services available: housingrelated training/education; information and referral; mediation/negotiation assistance; outreach; and regional-specific programming which is designed to meet specific or unique housing needs in Massachusetts' communities. Refer to the Regional Non-Profit Housing Agencies listed on page 25. For more information, please contact the Division of Neighborhood Services at (617)727-7004.

Other sources are Community Development Corporations (CDCs) listed on pages 32 thru 35 and Community Action Agencies (CAAs), listed on pages 36 thru 37. If you need temporary shelter, see the list of shelter referral/placement services on page 41 and the list of temporary shelters starting on page 42 thru 51. The Homelessness Prevention Agency providers on page 52 can also help you search for housing and help you become stabilized once you have found housing.
